

Premium Membership Club

FAQs - GAP Report

U.S. Graduate School Admission

Happy Schools Blog

FAQ's - Graduate School Admission

Before GRE

- I have just started preparing for GRE. So please guide me about the books and websites that can greatly help me prepare for the test. Is GRE Barron's sufficient? I have planned to buy GRE Bible, is it worth? I wish to get 1500+ in GRE. Do guide me to get that score.
- I want to write GRE and TOEFL in January 2010, can I apply for fall-2010 admissions into any university? I want to do MS in CS.
- What is the difference between January term and August term? I want to apply for the Jan 2010 term so when should I give GRE?
- How to contact professors in US, Importance of GRE in admissions?? etc.
- Discipline wise Ranking, desired scores in TOEFL, GRE etc. to get admission as well as Scholarship / Financial assistance, Guidance regarding survival there in present condition
- List of best universities for technical courses 2. Course commencement & Campus placements 3. Tips to score high in GMAT & GRE exams 4. Things to focus while selecting best universities in USA for MBA & MS.

- Some good techniques to learn vocabulary. Especially how to derive meanings of difficult words from more common - or through the medium of pictures. Salary data of International Students getting placed in various industries (branch specific). Contact no's or email ids of current students or alumni of US universities willing to help. Some tips on how to prepare a Paper Presentation - how to get involved in research?

After GRE

- I have completed my graduation in Computer Science. My GPA is 2.9 but my GRE score is 1380 and TOEFL score is 110. Is there any possibility of getting myself admitted into any US graduate school for a MS/PhD? I have some publications on my subject. I have a desire to get a PhD but is it possible with such a poor GPA? I will be grateful to you if you inform me on this.
- I got AWA score 2.5 in GRE, will this affect me in university selections and admission?
- How to write a good statement of purpose and CV specifically for Graduate School Admission?
- Information to the students about all the conditions that may affect their studies in US
- PhD admits have become tougher, if you can provide information about PhD positions available in each area it would be very useful. It is time consuming to go through 60-70 university websites and look for position and mail profs.

- I like to know about job opportunities about the top MS CS universities. (like if they have a placement cell to help students in getting placed in top firms and who are all the companies who visit their campus to collect the resume.. and another details which you deem important)

University Selection and Student Visa

- Can I get visa for community college? Is it true that, they will not give Visa for students going to Community College?
- List of RA's, TAs, funds, scholarships and fellowships available in different universities
- How to get student Visa stamping and how much bank balance is required for Visa Stamping
- I have admission from 4 Universities; I'm confused on which one to select. My life depends on the choice of University I attend, please help me? Thanks.

List of Questions Continues

You can see that list of questions like this continues to many pages. Do you have similar questions? Do you know where to find answers to such questions?

There have been always been a huge gap between such questions and process of finding right answers.

You post similar questions in the forums and wait for days to see if someone will reply to it. Sometimes you get right answers, but most of the time they are not right or they will guide in wrong direction. So, do you see the GAP between your question and process of finding the answers?

You cannot afford to go in wrong direction. Your life and career depends on the university you decide to study. One wrong step will cost you thousands of dollars in expense.

Answers to your question come to you in the form of Premium Membership Club from Happy Schools Blog.

The wait is almost over, look forward for the grand launch of Premium Membership Club. One place to get all your questions answers.